

Upcoming Novel

II Death frowned, light and tight. "I might ask you the same question. For as much as it frightens each of you to see my face, it grieves me to see each of yours" (Savit).

Classroom Magazine

Ms. Bolden

Here is a preview of some texts we are going to read throughout the semester. Use this as a guide and get excited!

These are newer books, some being nominated for awards.

---

Let's read!
Schedule seen below

The Way Back

September-October

Too Bright to See

October to November

Everybody Looking

November to December

II I'll be minding my own business, in the bathroom or kitchen or whatever, and catch a glimpse of something in the mirror that isn't me. Not a blood-dripping evil face, or anything obviously supernatural. Just a face that isn't quite mine" (Lukoff).

"when you start
growing/further away
from/what used to be home/you go looking for somewhere/that lets you
be/what's inside your head" (Iloh).

WHAT WE CAN LEARN:

1. We can grow from trauma in life.
2. Desires change as we grow old.
3. Appreciation for our bodies can take us far.

EVERY BODY
LOOKING

